One is completely immersed in college life when one gets to GV, and that includes getting to know the faculty and staff on a personal level. The faculty is 100% devoted to delivering a classroom experience that is the standard of excellence, which includes knowing first names, interacting at social events, and answering e-mails long after graduation.

Deep Sharma (CSE) FCS

Gyan Vihar classrooms are like virtual learning shopfloors. There is a lot of “doing” and “action” involved. Nearly two-third of our time is spent learning the skills of analysis and decision making and applying theory. Then there is a tremendous pressure of developing a leader’s perspective among ourselves. The whole pedagogy is so intensive and smartly planned that by the time we reach the final semester, we have inculcated the instincts of a sailor.
